

IN THE SPOTLIGHT:

May 2023

"After many years of discussion, governments and organizations around the world are finally taking digital equity seriously, with grant monies, public-private partnerships, and leadership organizations like N50 leading the way," said Raj Singh, CEO at VCTI. "You can't bring innovative technologies to underserved communities without first providing a broadband infrastructure that delivers connectivity for all. We are honored to be part of this coalition of business leaders and technology innovators who are committed to closing the digital divide, and look forward to contributing our expertise in the area of broadband expansion."

VCTI is a world-class leader in broadband and network technology. The Company offers software solutions and managed services to enable broadband service providers to optimize investments for network evolution, simplify operations, and strengthen their path to digital transformation. VCTI also provides expert technical resources to help technology companies develop complex networked and cloud products. A trusted partner to the most respected and innovative broadband service providers and technology companies globally, VCTI is a privately held, global company headquartered in the US with offices in India.

Learn more at www.vcti.io